

Neuroscience in France

Opportunities for PhD candidates

Research in France

71 500

PhD students in France in 2023

4th

most popular study destination for international PhD students (OECD)

4th

country in the world for the number of Nobel Prizes

38%

international PhD students

425$

a year for tuition fees in PhD-training in France (including health insurance)

A tradition of academic excellence in higher education and scientific research

4

universities ranked in the Top 75 of the Times Higher Education and the Shanghai Ranking

5th position worldwide

France offers many opportunities for funded PhD in neurosciences

96 Research centers

684 Research teams

52 Doctoral program

A lifetime experience

Working in France presents a valuable opportunity: a chance to benefit from a prestigious scientific environment, whilst acquiring a new language and exploring diverse cultures and territories.

Useful links for practical information

Neuroscience in France

Major neuroscience center in France

French laboratories have rich international connections. In concrete terms, they offer a daily English-speaking working environment. Moreover, french laboratories and research teams benefit from many partnership and funding opportunities from the European network.

Find out more about doctoral programs

